4:35	Kendall, Director: Volunteer Appreciation &amp; MADC Volunteer of the Year Award	Volunteer Appreciation- Anne Little Roberts  Anne has been nominated for MADC Volunteer of the Year by fellow coalition members. She has served as the Business Sector Representative on the Executive Committee since 2020. Working with business partners from the Meridian Downtown Business Association, the Meridian Chamber of Commerce and elected officials; she has provided important prevention education to help guide policy decisions and address marketing campaigns. Anne was pivotal in rejoining MADC and Zamzows to engage in prevention conversations, raising awareness about the impact of campaign content while addressing concerns of community members and prevention advocates. She has been helpful whenever called upon as an active coalition member and was also pivotal in making sure we had coffee at the Recovery Day breakfast. Congratulations on your nomination and thank you for your continued prevention support. We appreciate you! Volunteer Appreciation- Danielle Fanopoulos  Danielle has been nominated for Volunteer of the Year by fellow coalition members. She serves as the Substance Abuse Sector Representative on the Executive Committee. Danielle's dedication to prevention comes through in her compassion for others and positive energy she brings to all her interactions. She excels at uniting partners in prevention, treatment and recovery; to enhance resource referrals for community members. From helping organize the Trauma-Informed Conference and serving on the Region 4 Behavioral Health Board, to enthusiastically volunteering at community events she has been a great asset and helpful whenever called upon as an active coalition member. Congratulations and thank you for your service, you are a joy to work with! Volunteer Appreciation- Jeanne Buschine  Jeanne has been nominated for Volunteer of the Year by fellow coalition members. Jeanne's advocacy and support for the prevention work of MADC has been integral to our longstanding partnership with West Ada School District and our combined efforts to advocate for, educate and support the wellbeing of youth in our communities. All the prevention strategies Jeanne has supported throughout the years are too numerous to list. A couple efforts we'd like to highlight from last year include; ensuring enough participation in the Idaho Healthy Youth Survey to yield valid data representing WASD students (critical to grant applications and selecting data driven prevention strategies), securing grant funding for student assessments, organizing training for staff and helping securing new drug free school zone signs. 		of words can convey our appreciation to Jeanne for supporting our youth. Thank you, and enjoy retirement! Volunteer of the Year- David Phillips  David has been voted the 2022 MADC Volunteer of the Year by fellow coalition members. He has served on the Coalition Executive Committee as the Media Sector Representative for the last two years and will serve a third year as the Faith Sector Representative. David's dedication to prevention has impacted community members not only in Meridian but throughout Idaho. From enthusiastically engaging with community members while providing prevention education at events like MADC's Annual Recovery Day Breakfast and Meridian's Trunk-or-Treat; to highlighting the work of Idaho's dedicated prevention advocates with State and National elected officials, he has helped expand our efforts in Idaho and beyond. David is a true prevention advocate and it has been an honor to have him dedicate his service to MADC. Thank you and congratulations on being MADC's 2022 Volunteer of the Year!
